

The Pessimist

I dare not signal skin, I dare reveal your work before I speak, before I claim the objects—my capacity, the anterior, opening prosperity of my own mind.

I wake from bed.

He stays asleep. I see his eyes. I dare not signal these.